My Interview “Cheat Sheet” by Briana Fox

No matter how much you prepare for an interview you walk in with butterflies in your stomach and hope your mind doesn't go completely blank. But sometimes your mind does go blank. This is why I created an interview cheat sheet that helps you stay on point even if your mind blanks.

When I walk into an interview I have my portfolio ready with extra copies of my resume, the job description of the job I'm interviewing for, some research on the company, and a notebook with my interview cheat sheet.

1. Dream big! Often we dream way too small.
2. Keep dreaming.
3. Don't let the naysayers squash your dream.
4. Take your work, your gift, seriously. What have you been blessed with? Are you using your talents?
5. Polish your craft.
6. Always put your best foot forward.
7. Build a reputation of excellence.
8. Set goals and monitor your progress.

What is your big dream? Deep down, what do you hope will happen in your life or your career? Have you given it any thought? Have you ever thought, “Wow, if this happens, it will be the ultimate?” You have to set these ideas in your mind so your subconscious can go to work. Just remember that it may take years for that dream to come true. But it is well worth the wait!
